A Way to Success

Mark had lost his parents in childhood and had been adopted by his grandparents, who had lived in countryside. Time passed and Mark grew up but he still couldn't reconcile with the life in the village. He asked his grandparents to give him some money so he could go to the big city.

Mark didn't feel welcome in the city, he was an alien. He rented a room in the suburbs and every day wandered about to find a place for himself. Once he saw a group of youths, doing parkour, and joined their band. This kind of sportive activity took him all and he spent years of training and became a leader of the team.

One evening Mark was walking back home when on the wall he spotted an announcement about a competition of parkour with a prize: 5000 dollars. He was overwhelmed by the desire to win and show his abilities. Besides he was hard up at the time and had no cash to pay the rent and he needed money to "keep floating".

The day of competition came and Mark was sure that he would become the winner, but he miscalculated, many people wanted the prize and performed brilliantly. Mark didn't win money and had to return to his grandparents, but he didn't lose his passion and love for parkour. Every day he jumped over the fence as if it was an obstacle to get over on the way to success.
