Test in Chemistry

My school life is full of positive emotions. But there were some sad moments I feel ashamed of. Here is one of them.

I have a close friend who is very clever at many subjects but is an absolute dunce at chemistry. He hates this subject so much that he constantly plays truant.

So once we were going to have a very important test in chemistry. The final mark depended on this test. My friend didn't prepare for it. So he asked me to help him and write a cheat sheet. As he was dear to me, I helped him and wrote a cheat sheet. We thought that it would be a terrific way out of the situation.

The next day we had a test. At first everything was perfect. My friend was using the cheat sheet and was calm and happy. But at some moment, the teacher saw that he was using a cram and took it away, saying that he had failed the test.

I knew that the teacher would recognise my handwriting and was afraid that she would be angry with me. I thought that I had failed my test too. But she just asked me to stay in class after the test.

I was ready for the worst. But my teacher just said that she was glad that I wanted to help my friend, but it was not the best way to help him. I had better explain the material to him. I agreed to do it.

Now my friend is one of the best students in chemistry and he likes it.
