Writing

You have 60 minutes to complete the task.

Write a short story based on an episode from school life

In your story:

1. Follow the rules of short story writing;
2. Use direct and/or indirect speech;
3. Describe feelings and emotions;
4. Make an unexpected ending;
5. Use the following words at least once:

(underline the word from the list when using it for the first time)

- play truant
- cheat sheet
- detention
- dunce
- terrific

Write 220 - 250 words.

You to get a passing grade at your final test
During my brother's senior in college, he was a teacher's assistant. Once he had to conduct an important test in an assembly hall admitting 100 eleventh-formers. To manage this huge group of students, he established strict rules. As we know class dunces who have played truant throughout term time frequently resort to cheat sheets
to scrape through exams.

When the students' time was up he called out sternly, "Pens down! Hand in your papers." Mercifully, everyone stood up obediently ready to turn in their papers except for one sneaky ^{so} ~~guy~~ ^{at the back} guys. He just kept writing. In despair, my brother barked for the last time, "Stop writing, now!" He was exasperated that this student, permanently the one who had often been put in detention, was impertinently trying to disobey his rules. "How dared he behave like that? Gosh, I'll get him ^{so}!"

At last the guy came up to him in tears, "Take my test paper, please. My parents will kill me if I don't pass it." My brother refused pointblank. Then the guy boldly turned around ~~and~~ with confidence and asked, "Do you know who I am?" He asked with terrific arrogance. My brother started worrying. Was he the head teacher's son? Would he himself have problems after this incident? He answered with a little hesitation in his voice:

- No, I'm sorry. I can't take your paper.
- So, are you 100% sure you don't know who I am?
- For the last time ^{so}, no!
- Well then, good!"

And he shoved his test paper into the middle of the stack and ran out.
