Once in a Saraway school in a Saraway class there was a big trouble. Here in Mytischki we call it, the Great and Horrible Test! Its coming generally creates tons of hilarious stories, but one of them is exceptional. Why? Because it is about me, obviously.

To start with, the Test pays a visit to us in March and that is when everybody opens in himself earlier unrevealed cheating skills. So was I. I spent the whole February walking, sleeping and watching films, ~~in total getting all sorts of pleasure from my life.~~ To be honest, I even had no feeling of guilt or anxiety about my ~~hard~~ "exhausting" preparations. But the day before the last day of my life I asked myself: "Do you really love nature and fresh air so much that I feel ready to end your existence as a gardener?" The answer did not matter. I started to act.

Among all tasks I had to face, the word dictation turned out to be the most difficult. Actually, I have no idea how people manage to remember so many English words. Fortunately, I knew which phrases would exactly appear in the test, and ~~decided to copy them onto my pen case~~. Anyway, there ~~was~~ ~~so many~~ was an great number of strange words like "detention", "duke" and phrases as "play truant" and ~~there was~~ ~~no space on my case so~~ ~~that~~ ~~so~~ my own hand became a cheat sheet for them. I felt fully confident I would pass it easily.

The next day, ~~when I came to school~~, my classmate asked me whether I eventually became a mindful person. I ~~smiled~~ and nodded. There was no sign of danger before the dictations ~~beginning~~. I understood one terrific thing: before going to school I took a warm shower and accidentally washed all the words off. What a smart action, isn't it?
