Lucky strike

To begin with, I want to tell you a bit about my best friend Dasha. She is an ordinary 17-year old girl who has been dreaming about achieving success in economic career from the age of 12.

~~Dasha is really good with numbers and various math tasks and at the same time, she wants to bring benefit to society. So, obviously, economy is just the best variant of her self development. "I will rule the world!" - that is how she always jokes about her career choice.~~

Two years ago Dasha heard about the Lyceum of the Higher School of Economics and absolutely fell in love with it. I remember her calling me at night and screaming: "Kate, you will never believe me! ~~I've~~ I've found the best school of the world! I'm sure you will definitely love it!" I understood what she had been talking about when we went on the Door Opening Day. In May we successfully passed all exams and were accepted to the Lyceum. How upset we were in September when I met our Math teacher. He was really bad at communication with us and this<sup>200</sup> created a detention mood on our lessons. Even when we played truant, he ~~was looking~~ looked for cheat sheet and this was really unbearable. ~~One Day~~ One day Dasha ~~came~~ who was really unsatisfied with her Math lessons asked his advice about good tutor. "I know one very professional woman" - he said and gave Dasha her phone number. At the first lesson with new teacher Dasha could not but tell her about our horrible Math tutor: "He is so boring and pompous that I cannot just concentrate on classes with him!" Suddenly the door opened and our Math teacher came in. Dasha ~~was~~ was absolutely shocked: "What's going on?" - she asked. "Oh, Dasha, it's my son Ivan" - her new tutor applied. "What a terrific news... Good evening, Ivan Vladimirovich" - that ~~was~~ was the only words my friend could answer.
