Italians love food and they certainly know how to make some great dishes. Pasta and pizza are just some of the great Italian dishes to try when in Italy. What better way to experience Italian food than with a food tour. Tours take place in the heart of the Tuscany area of Italy. Italian tour guides, who can speak many languages, take you to the various food factories and farms around Tuscany.

Olive oil is an important part of almost all Italian dishes and Tuscany is famous for its fine oil. The tour includes a stop at an olive oil factory where you can see how they make the oil. The factory doesn't sell the oil, but you can take some oil home with you as a gift.

The next stop on the tour is a cheese farm. Here you can learn about all the different kinds of cheese the farm makes and you can even taste a little cheese to find your favourite! There are also animals on the farm. At the end of the visit, the farm serves a delicious lunch with cheese and meat from the farm.

No food tour is complete without a stop at a traditional pasta factory. At a factory near Pisa, you can see all the different types of pasta and learn how they make it. After the tour of the factory, a stop at the factory's pasta and pizza kitchen is a must! Here Italian chefs teach you how to make delicious pasta and pizza dishes. After all that cooking, visitors are usually hungry and can enjoy a spaghetti dinner in the factory's beautiful garden restaurant with great views of Pisa.

So, what's for dessert after all this food? Chocolate of course! The final stop on the tour is 'Chocolate Valley' for the best in Italian chocolate. Chocolate Valley is a beautiful green area between Pisa and Florence. There are many chocolate factories there that produce fine chocolate. At the chocolate factories, you don't just learn about chocolate, you create your own chocolate treats like chocolate mousse and chocolate bars. The best part is tasting your creations; it's the perfect end to a delicious day in Italy!
