A trip to remember.

One day me and my friends decided to go on a road trip because Ann, my best friend, had received her driver licence. There were four of us: Ann, Dasha, Tera and me. I thought it would be the best day of my life but I was wrong.

After an hour Ann realized that there was hardly any patrol left in her car. We weren't able to reach a gas station on time so we were now stuck in the middle of a highway. Dasha got angry and started screaming at Ann: "Why can't you be more cautious." Everyone was now screaming at each other and blaming everybody but not themselves. Suddenly, a terrible storm started. I didn't think everything would work out.

To our astonishment we heard scuttling. A man went out of his car and offered to help us. At first we were a bit suspicious because it was late at night. But the man looked uncanny and helped us to get the car to the nearest gas station. He also noticed that we were fighting and said: "You know, instead of blaming each other for everything you could have worked together and got your car to the station without my help." We reeled. We apologised to each other and stopped fighting. Then we thanked the man and drove home. We got back home in one piece: cold, drenched, but having ~~learned~~ learnt an important lesson.
